When I think about Max's future now, I see a totally different trajectory. A totally different road than I did in the past. I was so used to thinking for him in all situations, making sure that he was okay.

For the first time I felt I might not have to do that for him, he may be able to do that for himself. I see him accessing life in a way he's never been able to do before.

Symbol Relations Enhancement Program

Strong learners have strong brains. Your child can build their brain's capacity to:

- understand complex concepts
- be flexible and adaptive
- develop strong executive function skills
- think critically and analytically

Participation involves:

- sessions of 30-60 min of focused activity
- real-time coaching and feedback from your Arrowsmith Facilitator
- concrete and achievable goals keeping your child on track
- measurable and meaningful cognitive change and ability
